

See the Whole (Disha Sheth):

- This week we conducted one meeting. Each team member had thought of refactoring methods and methods for optimisation which were discussed in the meeting.
- Views by all team members were shared, discussed and a minimal and efficient solution was thought of.
- This week, we also discussed design patterns to be involved in the project development.
- All team members gave their inputs in the discussion.
- I made sure that all members in the team are participating equally in the process of project development.
- The ideas of all team members of design patterns to be implemented, the logic behind the same was discussed and at the end of the meeting, we came upon a gist of the meeting and summarised the meeting on the whole.
- I made sure that all members see the project as a whole, be thorough with all the concepts in process development and have an insight into all the concrete tasks required for the same.
- We, as a team, ensured that the main focus of the application development is not lost and everyone stays intact with the final desired output of the project as a big picture.
